A VISITOR'S VIEW

THE life of a Colonial Office minister these days is neither enviable or happy. We live in an era of dissolution, in which the accustomed framework of nation and empire is ever changing, giving no indication of a settled form in which ten or 20 years hence it might emerge. It is the minister who is, or should be most acutely aware how swiftly and fundamentally the change is taking place. Asia has experienced its day of fury, and revolutionary nationalism. Now it is Africa's turn.

To Lord Perth, now visiting Hongkong, the settled calm, the general contentment, the lack of clamorous independence seekers, must provide a vivid contrast. By contrast, too, his visit here foreshadowed no major policy changes. It is more a tour of inspection and familiarisation. But the impressions he gains first-hand will be infinitely more durable and more meaningful than anything he can read or be told. Thus Hongkong welcomes him.

I F Lord Perth tries to judge the Colony's most pressing problems he will have come closest to them in his visits to housing estates, new towns, new reservoirs, factories — though he has seen our best rather than our meanest and most squalid. And he has possibly gained the impression that if there is still much to be done in a territory whose population is increasing at the fastest rate in Asia, our record of past achievement gives us some confidence for the future.

Lord Perth will have heard the arguments for and against constitutional reform. To him, accustomed as he is to the dissolution of an empire, our petty disputes must seem like a small storm in an outside tenebris. But those who oppose even such a mild reform as the two civic organisations advocate, liken it to a kiss of death. And survival as far as Lord Perth will have witnessed, our uppermost concern.

THIS is not an expression of opinion by diehard colonials bent on permanent subjugation of the local people. It is a viewpoint based on realities, based on the conviction that once this constitutional process is allowed to start it will not stop until Peking swallows the Colony, like a ripe litchi. And the stone in the centre it will throw out will include not only an administration with a record to compare with any in Asia, but also those who believe that eight elected Legislative Council seats could solve all our problems.

This does not mean that there are no complaints about the way things are being run but we are not convinced that the solution lies in constitutional changes. The important things of life are decent housing for all, employment with dignity and just rewards, the elimination of disease, and malnutrition, the spread of education, the assurance of justice and equality for all. If these can be assured with the help of the British Government we shall have good cause for gratitude.

Influence of Fidel Castro seen in latest trouble UPHEAVAL IN LATIN AMERICA

Riots and a revolt rock republics

New York, Oct. 26.

Riots and revolution rocked two Latin American republics today. Cuba's Fidel Castro, who has been baiting American "imperialism" was an influence, although not the direct cause of the trouble. The two crisis centres are tiny Central American republic San Salvador and Caracas, Venezuela.

SAN SALVADOR

San Salvador, Oct. 26. A civilian military junta headed by Colonel Miguel Angel Castillo today overthrew the regime of President Jose Maria Lemus who has ruled this mountainous Central American coffee republic since 1956.

The President and the Secretary General of the Presidency, Major Adolfo Rubio Melchior crossed into neighbouring Guatemala.

President Lemus is strongly anti-Communist. The country has been under a state of emergency and martial law since last month following a series of pro-Castro disturbances in which one person was killed and several injured.

Elections

On August 16 about 1,000 demonstrators attacked the United States embassy and a newspaper office here. President Lemus blamed the disturbances on International Communists.

The Pacific coast state of El Salvador is also bordered by Guatemala. It is the smallest and most densely populated country in Central America. The new ruling junta promised to hold new elections in 1962 and guaranteed that they would be "absolutely free." Opponents of Lemus contended his election was rigged.

The Junta communiqué said Lemus was overthrown because he "governed outside the law . . . trampled on the constitution and the rights of citizens . . . committed illegal acts . . . and created a climate of general discontent."

Today's revolution was carried out quickly and without bloodshed.

One of the first steps taken by the junta was to announce that all political prisoners would be freed.

300 in jail

An estimated 300 people had been thrown into jail by Lemus in putting down demonstrations in the capital. The demonstration started in August in support of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro at the time American foreign ministers were meeting in San Jose, Costa Rica.

There had been reports of police brutality against some political prisoners.

The three civilian members of the junta are all young government career officials, about 35 years of age, and believed to have middle-of-the-road political beliefs. They represent no political parties.

The junta announced it has complete control of the country and that there is calm everywhere.—Reuter and AP.

TYPHON NINA

Tokyo, Oct. 27.

Typhoon Nina, travelling at a faster pace, moved closer toward Tokyo today but Japanese weathermen predicted that the storm will not hit the main island.

They said, however, that big waves may hit the island's Pacific coastline as Typhoon Nina, with 130 miles-an-hour centre winds, skirts Boso Peninsula, south of Tokyo, at noon today.

Some 600 fishing boats operating in the Pacific have been warned.—AP.

SOPHIA ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Rome, Oct. 26. Prominent Italian screen actress Sophia Loren and her husband, producer Carlo Ponti, were ordered today to appear in Rome's Civil Court on a bigamy charge.

The Italian Prosecutor's Office, in a summons delivered to the couple's home here, ordered them to appear in Court on January 27 to answer the charge.

The Prosecutor has asked the court to annul their proxy marriage performed in September 1957 in Mexico on the ground that Mr Ponti was still married under Italian law to Mrs M. Flastria.

Ponti does not recognise divorce. Ponti married Mrs Flastria in March 1946.—AP.

SNATCHED SENTRY'S GUN TO KILL PRINCESS

A 47-year-old man late tonight approached a sentry on duty outside the Royal Palace, deftly snatched his sub-machine gun through the dark and winding streets of Stockholm.

One hour later he turned up at the Stockholm morning paper, Stockholm Tidningen, brandished his gun and said: "I want to kill the Princess Silvia."

Silvia is the mother of Sweden's 14-year-old successor to the Throne, Prince Carl Gustaf.

VENEZUELA

Caracas, Oct. 26. Bloody street disorders broke out again in Caracas early today as the Government fought what it said was a Communist attempt to set the last stage for revolution.

Two people were killed and 24 others injured in turbulent pre-dawn rioting in the city's outskirts. The clash came after reinforced army-police patrols tried to scatter organised mobs.

The new casualties brought to 54 the number of people injured in street riots in the last 24 hours. More than 100 have been arrested.

Army-police units used tear gas grenades to halt today's rioters after they had burned six privately-owned cars and were looking for additional victims. The rioters used impromptu "Molotov Cocktails" (gasoline-filled bottles) and showers of rocks to resist.

Gunfire

More than 3,000 troops and police patrolled city streets. Sporadic gunfire was heard throughout the night but no official explanation of it was forthcoming.

President Private Secretary Alejandro Yabridi blamed the outbreaks on "Communists and fellow-travellers trying to create a favourable atmosphere for what they call the People's Revolution."

He said the Communists were using teen-age and politically naive students to spearhead the disorders.

The general purpose of the demonstration has been to demand a Cabinet reorganisation and revision of Government policies.

President Betancourt has long been under fire from communists and other leftists because of his friendship with the United States and his coolness towards the Fidel Castro regime.—UPI.

RANDOLPH CALLED A COWARD

Randolph Churchill

London, Oct. 26.

A Conservative Member of Parliament agreed in court here today that in a public speech he had called Mr Randolph Churchill, son of Sir Winston, a coward.

But he said, this was in relation to articles Mr Churchill had written about Sir Anthony Eden and the Suez crisis of 1956. He did not impugn his physical or military courage in any way.

Mr Churchill is suing the MP, Mr Gerald Nabarro, for slander.

EXCEPTION

Mr Nabarro, who sports huge mustaches and is one of the most ebullient personalities in Parliament, told the court he had left a council school at the age of 14 and in industry had risen from labourer to managing director.

He said he had taken exception to Mr Churchill's articles, especially one which gave an actual statement purported to have been made to Sir Anthony Eden at a Cabinet discussion.

He thought it was a cowardly action to publish remarks from inside a Cabinet meeting, since Sir Anthony would be unable to reply without divulging Cabinet secrets.

The case was continuing.—Chin Mail Special.

New space bid fails

Los Angeles, Oct. 27.

Discoverer XVI, a new rocket big enough to carry monkeys or "spy" reconnaissance cameras, failed in its first test firing from the Vandenberg Air Force Base yesterday.

The US Air Force said that the first and second stages of the rocket failed to separate and then plunged together into the Pacific Ocean.

The Discoverer was to have gone into orbit carrying special instruments to stop the wobbling that has prevented the recovery of capsules from previous shots.—Reuter.

Police said that the man had escaped from an insane asylum earlier this year.

GERMAN PILOT MAKES ADMISSION

Flew within '2,000 feet' of Queen's Comet

Oldenburg, Oct. 26. A West German fighter pilot based here has admitted flying within about 2,000 feet of the Queen's Comet yesterday, an unofficial report here said tonight.

The pilot had maintained, however, that he did not fly dangerously near to the Royal plane which was on its way from Copenhagen to London.

The report said the pilot was the leader of a training flight of two Sabre jets flying in tight formation about 15 feet apart.

The pilot was described as a fully-trained man who was now doing advanced training to prepare for squadron operation.

Both German

A Royal flight in the so-called "purple corridor" must be given minimum vertical clearance of 3,000 feet or horizontal clearance of ten miles.

The report said the plane came from a West German Air Force fighter training base here.

Sometimes Royal Canadian Air Force instructors fly in one of the planes of a two-plane flight to give squadron instruction to the German pilots.

But this time both the pilots were German.

Base officials referred all press queries to the Defence Ministry in Bonn and Squadron Leader Wally Moore of Edmonton, Alberta, Commander of the Canadian Advisory Group of about 17 flying instructors and ground advisers, declined to give any information.

Usually well-informed sources said that the German fighters had not been fitted with cameras, which are sometimes fitted instead of guns.—Reuter.

CASE OF THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE

Cunard to pay skipper £2,500

Liverpool, Oct. 26. The Cunard Steamship Company announced yesterday that it intends to pay £2,500 to a former Cunard liner captain who, on Monday, withdrew a £40,000 lawsuit against the Company.

The lawsuit brought before the London High Court by Captain James Armstrong, the former master of the 28,000-ton Britannia, became known in the London press as "The Captain's Table Case."

Captain Armstrong sought damages for alleged wrongful dismissal by the Company last June following alleged complaints by passengers on a New York to Liverpool voyage in the Britannia.

He thought it was a cowardly action to publish remarks from inside a Cabinet meeting, since Sir Anthony would be unable to reply without divulging Cabinet secrets.

The case was continuing.—Chin Mail Special.

GERMAN TROOPS

IN FRANCE

Bonn, Oct. 26. The first column of German troops to enter France peacefully for 100 years crossed the border tonight on its way to three weeks of training near Reims next month.

The 200-strong column, advance party of 2,400 paratroopers and armoured infantry, and the first German soldiers to enter France since World War II, was given a friendly reception by an escort of French military police and gendarmes.

But apart from the escort, there were only a few passing motorists and about 20 journalists present to watch the 32 trucks and 15 jeeps rumble over the border at Ittersdorf, near Saarbruck.

The local French population had not been told of the crossing, apparently, to prevent any organised demonstration.

The German troops, from the Fifth Armoured Infantry Division at Marburg and the 20th Parachute Brigade from Sigmaringen, have been warned against doing anything that might injure Franco-German relations.—Reuter.

London stocks decline

London, Oct. 26. Industrial stocks ran mostly lower today as buyers favoured the sidelines in an unsettled market.

Electricals showed some improvement but steels, engineering, motors and rubber all shared the lower trend.

Gold stocks declined in the morning due to a lower price quoted for the metal but buyers returned later to notch small gains for the group.

Government bonds maintained their advance under the anticipation that a bank rate cut was imminent. Dollar stocks were lower.

Oils and tees drifted downward while rubbers held steady.—UPI.

Russia on Comet incident

Moscow, Oct. 26. The Soviet government daily, Izvestia, said today the near collision of the Queen's Comet airliner and two German fighters yesterday was a "new manifestation of West German militarism."

The late German Field Marshal Hermann Goering "would have smiled with pleasure to see what is now going on in Western Europe," the paper said.

He was answering questions in the House of Lords.

Lord Alexander of Hillsborough, leader of the Labour party, asked whether Anglo-American negotiations were taking place about the use of the Polaris by British forces.

Lord Carrington replied: "Britain has no responsibility for the development of Polaris."

The dollars were stolen last Saturday. The amount stolen had not been reported.

One of the three men arrested was a money changer. Nationalist Chinese Charge d'Affaires Jodi Chen Kao, who has left Bamako, lodged no complaint, but reportedly was worried that documents he carried were searched.

The arrest ended rumours which had been racing through Bamako in the best "spy story" tradition.—UPI.

Stockholm, Oct. 26. A Swedish court today sentenced to prison terms varying from 14 to 18 months three of the defendants in the trial of an arms smuggling gang which included stolen Swedish arms in Morocco from a former Swedish navy launch, presumably intended for the Algerian rebels.—UPI.

Sir Leslie, who is paying a four-day visit to the Netherlands at the invitation of the Dutch government, will continue his discussions in the Hague tomorrow, when he will also be received by the Dutch Foreign Minister, Mr. J. M. A. H. Luns.—Reuter.

Later, in the House of Commons, Labour members questioned the Minister of Defence, Mr. Harold Wilson, about proposals to serve United States Polaris-carrying submarines at Scottish bases.

Mr. Wilson replied that discussions had been going on with the United States authorities "about the possibility of providing certain facilities for the United States fleet ballistic missile submarines in Britain."

"These discussions will continue. Any agreement resulting will be announced first in the House," he added.—Reuter.

Kennedy accuses Nixon of covering up secret U.S. report

New York, Oct. 26.

Sen. John F. Kennedy today accused Vice-President Richard M. Nixon of a "political cover up" on a secret government report showing that U.S. prestige abroad had fallen to a new low.

He called this showing of America's standing overseas an "ominous event."

He said he is dwelling on the relies on a coalition or "grand prestige issue because America alliance" in its struggle with the Communists. Once other countries feel the "leader of this grand alliance is failing behind" they will be less anxious to support the free world struggle, Sen. Kennedy said.

Sen. Kennedy continued to exploit the prestige issue today, charging that the Eisenhower administration has "consistently followed a policy of supressing important public information on procurement contracts and on foreign aid as well as on the recent prestige report."—UPI.

Washington, Oct. 26. Living costs in America rose in September to a record high.

The U.S. government's Labour department's living cost index went to 126.8 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. This is 1.3 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Pearson said the Finch version was that Waters had advanced $205,000 to Don Nixon he was actually acting for Hughes with the approval and knowledge of the Vice-President." Pearson said.

Don Nixon, contacted at a New York hotel where he is staying smilingly refused to answer questions about the Pearson column.

The story of the loan was previously explained by Nixon's campaign manager, Robert N. Finch, Pearson said, but he said Finch gave a completely distorted version of the facts.

Pearson said Waters had advanced the loan to Don Nixon because Waters' wife had gone to school with Mrs. Don Nixon.

Pearson said Finch failed to mention that Waters had been long-time lawyer for Howard Hughes, and is very close to Nixon."—UPI.

SECRET $205,000 LOAN ALLEGED

Columnist attacks Nixon's brother

New York, Oct. 26. Columnist Drew Pearson said today in his Washington Merry-Go-Round column that Vice-President Richard M. Nixon's brother received a secret $205,000 loan from industrialist Howard Hughes.

In his column Pearson said important matters of the Hughes' companies before the Federal Government got better treatment after the loan.

Vice-President Nixon was not immediately available for comment on the report. He is on a campaign tour through Ohio.

Pearson said that the $205,000 loan was advanced to Nixon's brother, Don, through his mother, Mrs. Hannah M. Nixon, it was offered by Frank J. Waters, a Hughes lawyer, Pearson said.

ON BOOKS

"The loan was carried on the Hughes Tool Company books as money disbursed to Frank J. Waters, but on the books of Nixon's Inc. It is carried as a one-year loan from Hannah M. Nixon," he said.

Repairs to new cruiser

Portsmouth, Oct. 26. Repair work which will take at least three months has begun in the dockyard here on the Navy's newest guided-missile cruiser HMS Lion.

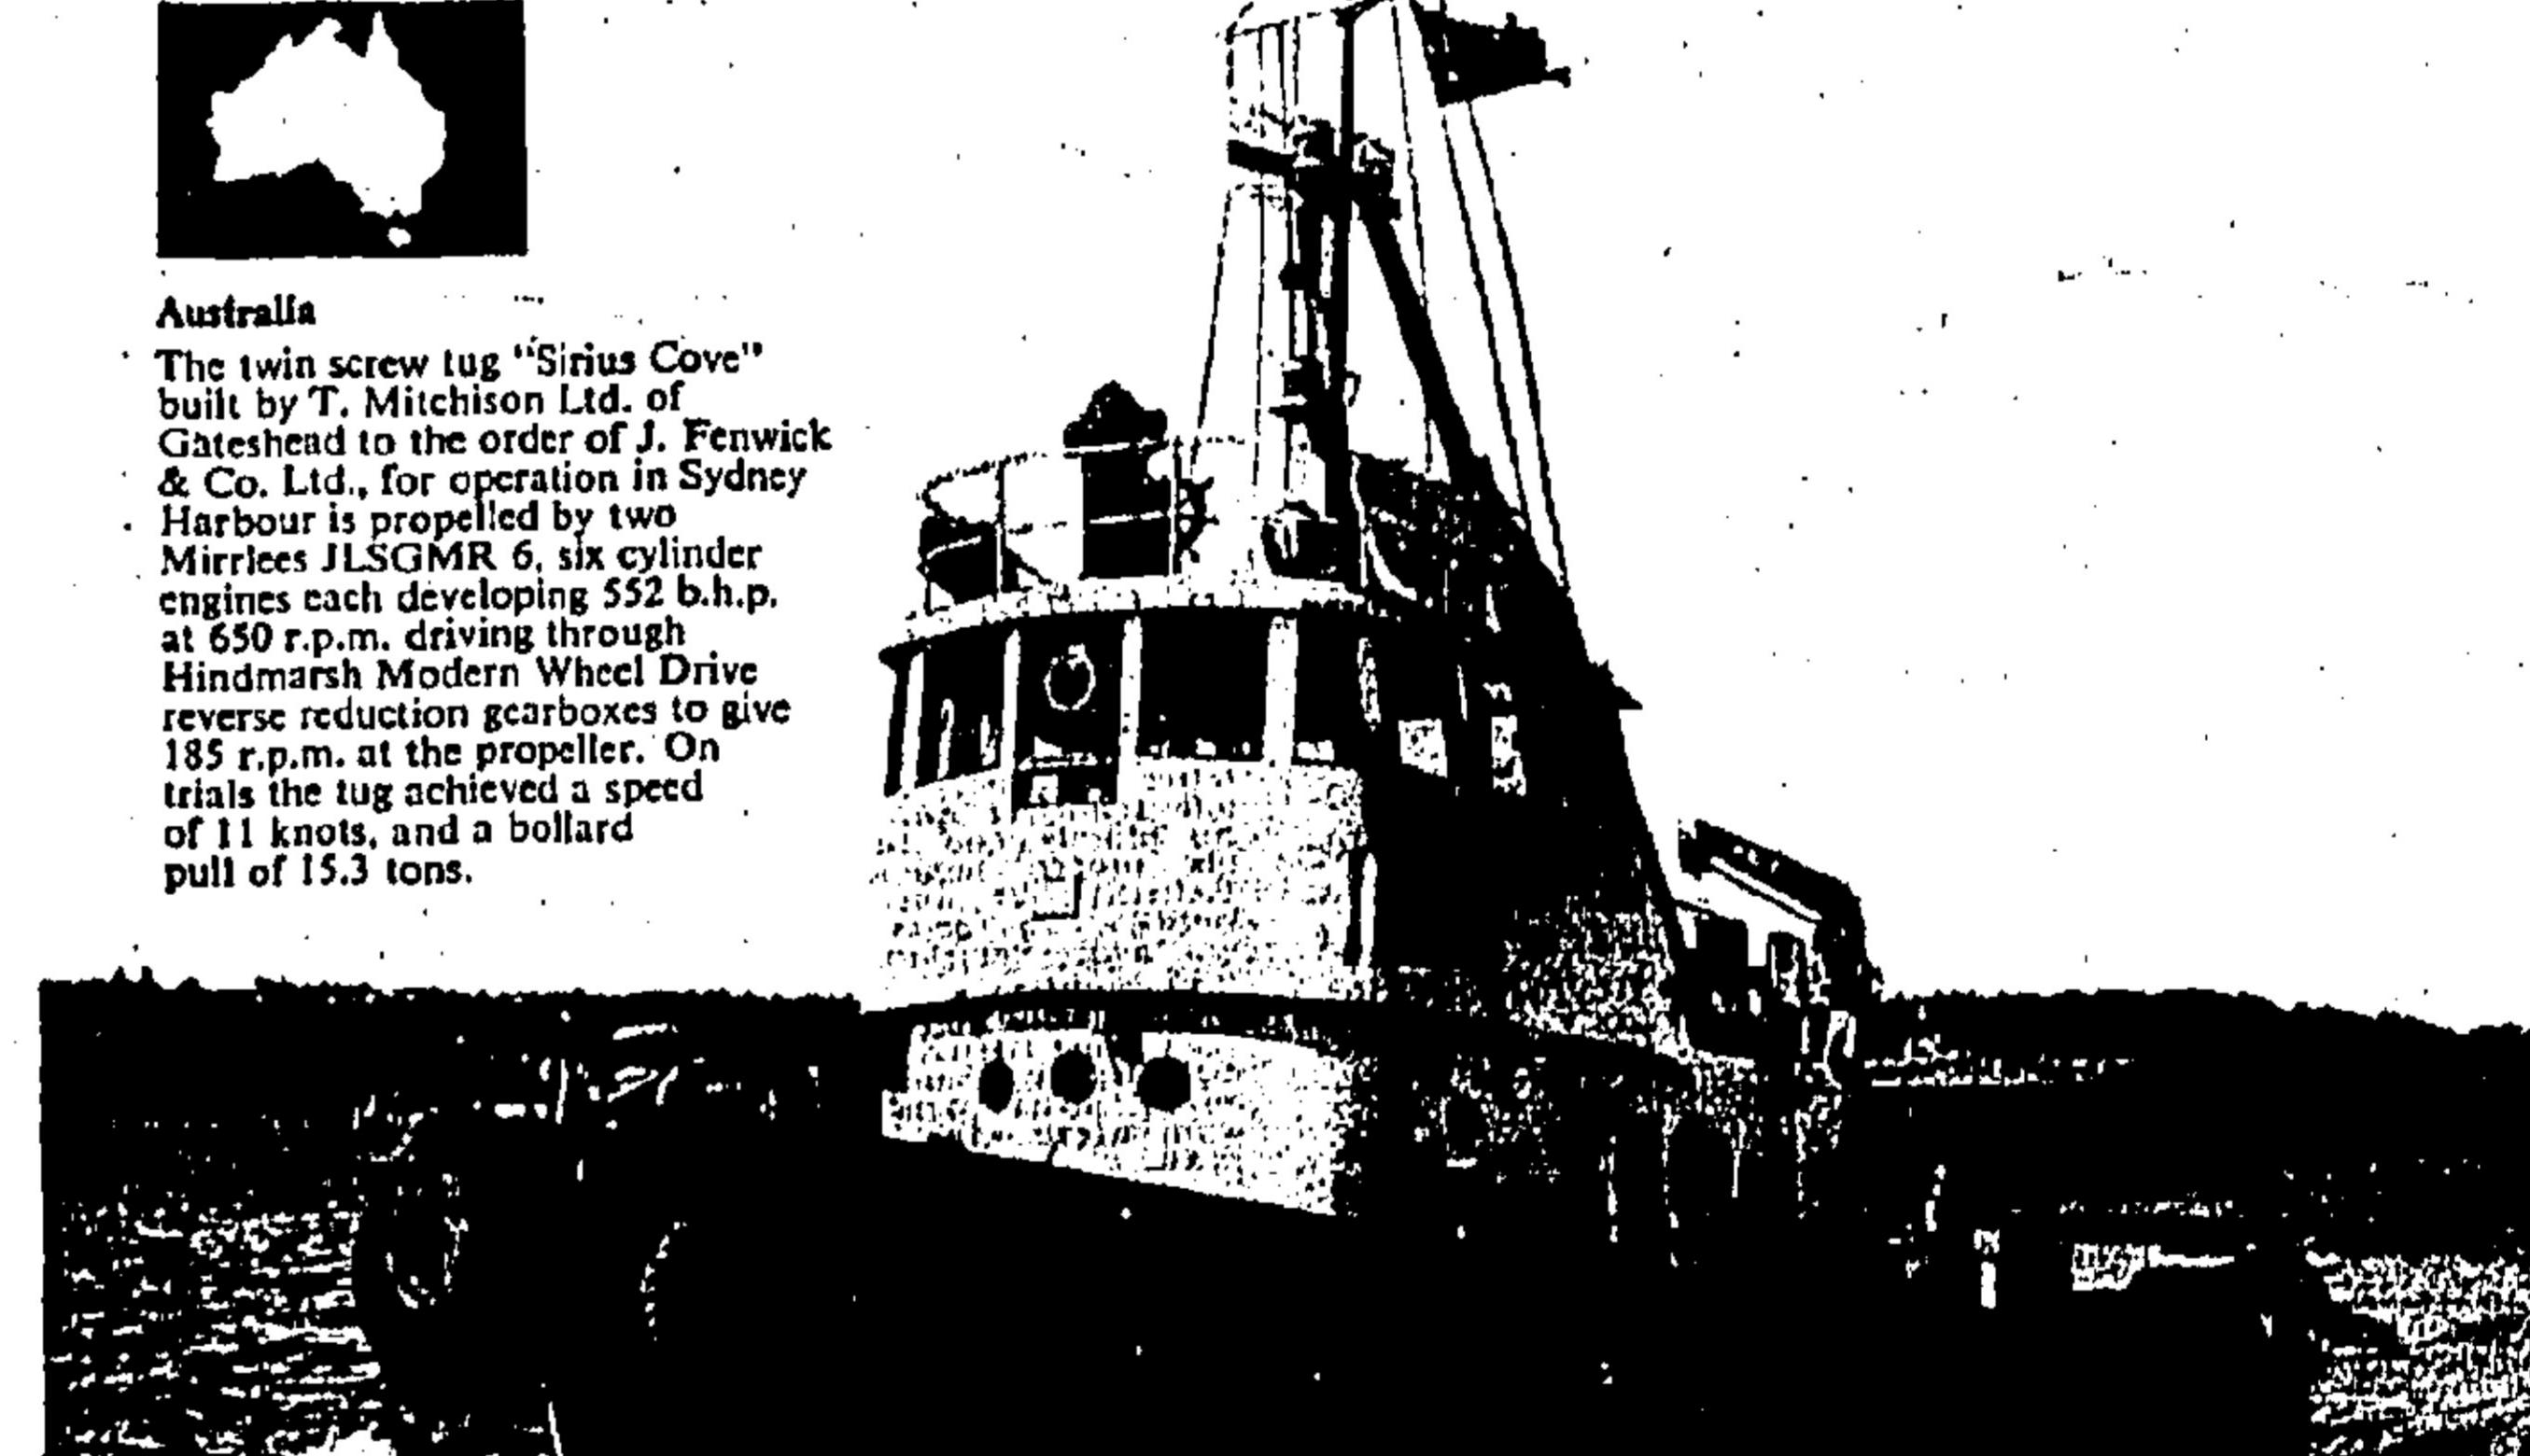

Lion, which was commissioned on July 20, has been undergoing trials. Faults have been found in the ship's six-inch gun mountings and in the turbine engines.

A fortnight ago, the Admiralty admitted these troubles which have also been found in Lion's sister ship HMS Tiger now in the Mediterranean. —China Mail Special.

Cuba tightens defences

Havana, Oct. 26. The government of Fidel Castro today sent reinforcements to its coastal positions, especially in Oriente province, as persistent rumours were heard of new landings in that area.

Correspondents at Santiago de Cuba confirmed that more Castro troops and militiamen have been deployed, especially along the South Coastal areas, but they insisted there were no confirmations that new insurgent forces had landed anywhere.—AP.

The Shah of Iran tells a white lie

By RICHARD BERRY

Even a king has to tell white lies sometimes. The Shah of Iran told one the other day. He was asked if he hoped the child Queen Farah is expecting soon would be a boy or a girl.

He replied: "It would make no difference to me whether the baby is a boy or a girl."

In point of fact, all the world knows the Shah definitely wants a son. Though his father sired four daughters and seven sons, the Shah still has no male heir to his throne.

In 1948, after she had borne him one daughter, he divorced Egypt's Fawzia. Three years later, he married the half-German, half-Iranian Soraya.

The Shah divorced her in 1958, apparently convinced that she was barren.

Last year, after his companions had searched far and wide for someone who met the royal standards, the Shah struck up a third marriage with 21-year-old Farah Diba, Iranian art student in Paris. She, after treatment by Dior, Revillon and Cartier, equalled his first two wives in poise.

Soon after their marriage, Farah announced that a child was on the way.

On the assumption that the baby will be the long-awaited heir, the Shah has already decided to name him Cyrus—after ancient Persia's Cyrus the Great.

The Shah plans gala celebrations early next year for the 2,500th anniversary of Cyrus' empire, which once stretched from the Indus to the shores of Greece.

SHAH OF IRAN

An heir will help to bring stability to Iran. It is just the sort of "good omen" needed in this country where trouble has been a by-word for a long time.

The Shah's father was an absolute monarch who rose from private to colonel to King, overthrowing Iran's 130-year-old Qajar dynasty by force of arms.

But in time, Mohammed got himself elected captain of the school soccer team.

When Mohammed returned home, an attractive, smiling young man smartly clad in European clothes, his father took one disgusted look and slapped him back in uniform at the local military academy.

During the war, Britain and the Soviet Union occupied Iran, dividing it in two.

NARROW ESCAPE

Suspecting the old Shah of German sympathies, the Allies paraded him about in gold-trimmed uniforms.

The young Mohammed, as he was called, was pushed into the "manly sports" and in 1931 was sent to La Rosay school in Switzerland.

Striding into the school lounges, the young prince announced: "When I enter a room, everyone rises." His fellow students merely stared at him in polite amazement.

But in time, Mohammed got the Shah into the modern world, and he did not mind machine-gunning peasants to do it. He abolished the veil, and when a Moslem priest criticised the Queen for not wearing one, he kicked the priest in the stomach.

From the time the present Shah was a toddler, his father paraded him about in gold-trimmed uniforms.

Socialists want sole right to employ violence

TOKYO, (By Airmail). Party this week. The riddle: When is violence not violence? The answer: When it is committed by Socialists or other leftists.

Socialists are a tight spot, running with the support of the political sources raid that to party. The Socialist Party has so far nominated 187 candidates and the splinter Democratic Socialist Party has put up a total of 104 candidates.

The Communist Party is putting up 118 candidates, one in each constituency.

Despite the fact that the assassination of Asanuma is expected to give the Socialists some "sympathy" votes, Prime Minister Ikeda, who has promised to double the nation's income in ten years, is certain to win easily.

DISCHARGED PRISONERS NEED HELP

"Why should I Help Discharged Prisoners?" asked the title of a pamphlet recently published by the Hong Kong Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society.

Between the covers, it set down ten good reasons. Here are a few of them:

- It is costly to keep prisons where the ex-prisoners keep returning. The cost in Hong Kong has risen from $2,514,370.18 for the year 1947/48 to $7,926,302.36 in 1958/59, and the average prison population has increased from 2,176 in 1947 to 4,921 in 1959.
- Over a period of 12 years, 50 per cent of prisoners discharged never returned again. The percentage could be raised to 90 with public aid to their rehabilitation.

GOODWILL

- There is in every man a heart to respond to friendliness and goodwill. So is the heart of a prisoner.

- Discharged prisoners are people who have repaid their offence by serving the sentence. They should be given every chance and encouragement to start life afresh.

The Hong Kong Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society which was formed in 1957 is asking support and personal help from the public.

It needs members and associates.

For particulars and the pamphlets, those interested may contact the Secretary of the Society care of Leigh and Orange, P. & O. Building, Hong Kong (Tel. 31260), or

Frederic March's son fined

North Canaan, Conn., Oct. 26. The 25-year-old son of actor Frederic March and actress Florence Eldridge of New Milford, Connecticut, has been fined US$50 in North Canaan court for larceny and breaking and entering.

Anthony March of Sheffield, Massachusetts, pleaded guilty to the charges yesterday before Justice Edward Houston.

He was arrested on September 28 by state police. The court was told that March broke a lock on a tank here and took 50 gallons of petrol.—AP.

London, Oct. 26. Movie maker Spyros Skouras said today that Elizabeth Taylor is recovering from the illness which has held up shooting on the "Cleopatra" production, and will be back at work very soon.

Leaving London Airport for Paris, Skouras told newsmen: "I can't say when. I'm not her doctor. But she has got over the fever and it may be only a few days." Meanwhile, he said, filming has started in her absence. Skouras is president of 20th Fox, the company paying Miss Taylor US$1,000,000 and a percentage of the profits to play Cleopatra. He said producer Walter

Liz Taylor back at work soon

Wagner and director Robert Mulligan have been asked to shoot all the scenes they can without Miss Taylor. "They are doing this while we await her arrival on the set," said Skouras. Meanwhile the star languished in her London hotel penthouse. Studio officials said they hoped she would be well enough to start work next Monday.

Some of the best known physicians in Britain have been called in as consultants on the star's illness. So far they've gone no further than saying her temperature is caused by a mysterious virus infection.—AP.

South African desire to stay in Commonwealth

Dr Z. J. De Beer, leader of the South African Progressive Party, declared here today: "I am sure that it is safe to say that even among the white South Africans alone, at least two-thirds desire to remain in the Commonwealth."

Of the non-white population, he said: "I do not fear contradiction when I say that the vast majority of them would be in favour of preserving our Commonwealth membership."

He told members of the Conservative Commonwealth Council: "One is led to believe that, while there is considerable support for our membership here in Britain, certain of the newer and non-white states of the Commonwealth do not see their Commonwealth clear to allow us to remain members."

Understand

"Of course, I fully understand their feelings about present South African policies, but with due respect I would suggest to them that it would be illegal and unfair to exclude from the Commonwealth 11 or 12 million non-white people as a result of the decision in a referendum in which they were not even consulted."

Dr De Beer added: "Surely, if other Commonwealth countries have the interests of our non-white people at heart, there is much to be said for keeping them — and us — within the family, within reach of the perfectly proper persuasion which can be exercised through the Commonwealth contract."

Strengthen

He claimed the cessation of Commonwealth membership would — "for some time at any rate" — "strengthen the forces of racism in South Africa."

"There will be the shift of white opinion towards more discrimination instead of the small but encouraging signs of improvement which can be discerned at the moment."—China Mail Special.

This is how a doctor sees the famous of the world

New York.
A REMARKABLE book has just been published in America about the lives of 13 famous men. It is remarkable because the author, Dr Noel Fabricant, looks at the 13 through the eyes of a doctor—as patients.

This is what he says about five of his famous men—
GANDHI: His vegetarianism arose from his desire to have nothing to do with women. He once went to bed with one of his girl attendants to test his strength of character.

He implored the girl. But in his youth he had great sexual passions and indulged them. His tranquillity was probably aided by a drug.

HITLER: Probably suffered from Parkinson's Disease, which makes the patient shake, sometimes uncontrollably. He had a horror of venereal disease which suggests to Dr Fabricant that he may have suffered from it.

ROOSEVELT: probably had a series of small strokes before the hemorrhage that killed him. He was over-treated for sinus.

PROUST: The French novelist was tortured by asthma and was allergic to flowers, pollen, smoke, dust, perfume, dampness, "feminine" women, and cold sheets. He became obsessed dependent on his mother.

WILSON: President of America from 1913 to 1921, "slept like the dead," sometimes not appearing to breathe. Once he was observed to have the idea that he was menaced by French "spies."

The eight other famous men Dr Fabricant writes about: D. H. Lawrence, James Joyce, Sigmund Freud, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Clarence Darrow, Paul Gauguin, George Gershwin, and Enrico Caruso.

MR Beeton was every bit as fascinating a character as Mrs B. of the COOKERY & HOUSEHOLD MANAGEMENT, the most famous work of its sort ever compiled.

Indeed, not the least ironic fact about him is that the cookery book we most associate with solid Victorian household virtues was published by an artful dodger who also put out scurrilous doggerels against Queen Victoria, and who specialised in pornography, under the guise of a supplement to his "English

SOLEMNITY

Sam's first success was achieved when he was barely 21—he brought out a pirate edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

He was thus able to set up in business on his own, and the story of his professional activities is really of a genius for ideas in the magazine field who could not manage his own affairs, with the result that he seldom collected the profits he created.

Meantime he met and married the beautiful, extremely capable, young Isabella Mayson. The conception of the great book always associated with her name was in truth Sam's—hers was largely the dog-work of putting it all together. Nor was this the limit of her labours.

Sam considered childbirth simply "an effort of nature" and after making four such efforts Isabella died at the age of 29. There are grounds, though, for believing that her early death was due not (as is usually said) to this unrelenting productivity, but to exhaustion and worry over a business crash of Sam's.

After this Sam nearly became insane from grief, observing with black solemnity her birthday and other anniversaries. This, however, did not prevent him from forming liaison with a widow named Mrs Brown in the Isle of Dogs, to which he walked every night after finishing work in Fleet-street.

As a father he was affectionate. In his own eccentric way, and he rather enjoyed throwing his children unexpectedly into rivers and swimming pools.

OMISSIONS

As a publisher, he produced for Ward, Lock a Christmas Annual, which was a huge success until one year his colleagues discovered that it contained extraordinary attacks on the Royal Family, even to innuendos about the Queen and her Scots giggle, John Brown. (Sample joke: Why is Queen Victoria like the weather? Because she always reigns and never gives the sun a chance.) Whereupon Sam changed firms.

Freud might have made some pertinent queries about the effect of Isabella's death on Sam Beeton's mind: Sam himself was only 40 when he went to join her in Norway Cemetery.

THE ATOM OUTWITS EVERYBODY

A bomb can now be made in such small 'workshops' that nobody could track them down | A full scale explosion can now be set off without anybody being able to detect it...

AND GERMANY TUMBLERS TO IT!

by Chapman Pincher

Now, for the first time, this German machine makes it possible for a nation to produce H-bombs in a few small workshops, each undetectable except by house-to-house inspection.

The Russians are unlikely to agree to such an infringement of their privacy. And the Americans have set themselves against any disarmament agreement not covered by adequate controls.

This is not the first time that scientists, working quietly in the laboratory, have wrecked the careful plans of the politicians.

A few months ago East and West were all set to agree to a general suspension of atom tests on the basis that not even underground explosions could be carried out surreptitiously because they could be detected by sensitive earthquake recorders.

These negotiations were ruined by the unexpected discovery by U.S. scientists that a nuclear arms race was being made surreptitiously.

The Russians with their moon shots have inadvertently demonstrated the possibility of undetectable atom tests in space. What chance have the politicians when the scientists keep coming up with discoveries which wreck months of patient diplomacy?

But those who exert the relentless pressure are the thousands of working scientists dedicated to furthering the search for knowledge.

The military implications of their findings can rarely be foreseen.

The U.S. security authorities are trying to cover up the German machine's remaining secrets.

But it is inevitable that Soviet scientists will discover the detail for themselves, especially as the original work by Germans was done in Russia.

Predicament

Whatever the immediate outcome the German machine portends this inevitable trend—that the backyard-sized atomic factory will become a reality just as surely as the suitcase-sized atom bomb exists now.

Man's perilous predicament is the result of an inevitable curiosity which, through the centuries, has led him to so much glory, as well as to so much danger, but I can see no possibility of curbing it.

THE WORLD'S YEARLY ROAD HORROR

Road deaths per 10,000 vehicles on the road

Females curtailed

by Male Solons
in Switzerland

Berne, Switzerland, SWISS men, who take a dim view of the equality of woman and have steadfastly refused her political rights, recently added insult to injury by deciding that she should continue to receive less pay than a man doing the same work.

The all-male Upper Chamber of Parliament (Ständerat) refused, by 22 to 18, to vote to ratify Switzerland's adherence to International Labour Conference Agreement Number 100 which sets forth the principle of equal pay to men and women doing the same work.

The decision means that female workers in many industries will go on drawing only about 70 per cent of the wages paid to men in the same jobs.

The Lower Chamber of Parliament (Nationalrat)—which has approved the agreement already three times, trying to force the hand of the more conservative-minded Upper Chamber.

But the negative vote was the third time the Senate has said no—and probably marked the last time for many years that parliament will be asked for a decision on the matter.

In industry, it has been a custom in most parts of the country to pay women less than men.

In politics, Swiss women had no rights whatsoever until last year when the French-speaking cantons of Vaud, Neuchâtel and Geneva gave them the right to vote and to be elected in cantonal elections.

Other cantons may follow soon. But a majority of Swiss voters still firmly believe that women should keep out of politics—and stick to family, church and kitchen, as one slogan puts it.

Most observers agree that it will be many years before male voters are ready to grant females voting rights on a federal basis.

Like all other changes in the federal constitution, such a change would have to be approved by a majority of voters as well as cantons in a popular referendum.

The victim of today's swindle was one of our better players. In fact he is one of our very best and as a result of the misfortune is to be pitied rather than censured if one should ever pity an expert.

South's six no-trump contract was optimistic to say the least and he had certainly overbid to get there. His opening two no-trump bid was a six card suit but he had shaded his high card value down to 20 points and really should have passed when his partner raised him from two to four.

Actually the contract wasn't a bad one. But the ace of diamonds over in the East hand and South would have 12 tricks but that diamond ace sticks out right in the middle of West's cards.

So, how did South make the contract?

It was a cinch. Remember West was an expert. South simply won the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts, led a diamond and went up with his king.

Expert West ducked. He did not know about that six card club suit. He did know about his own ace and Jack of diamonds and wanted to wait for a second diamond lead so that he could make both of them.

That second diamond lead never came. And to add insult to injury South made all the tricks. West hung on to his ace and Jack of diamonds while East was equally tenacious with the queen and ten and South's deuce of spades took the 13th trick.

Welcome news for the Summer

by Rosana Groarke

WOMEN all over the world will soon be able to wear budget-priced versions of the beach wear of Jacques Heim of Paris designed for the rich and famous.

The British sportswear firm (Saville Sportswear), which exports to countries all over the world, showed its first collection of Heim copies to an audience which included M. Heim himself and Mme. Jean Chauvel, wife of the French Ambassador to Britain.

The 16 outfits shown were all made in cotton from the famous French house of Bonnac.

M. Heim, introducing his designs, said there was a "reminiscent oriental theme" running through the collection. The last design to be shown was one originally made for Queen Farah of Persia. It consisted of a pair of voluminous full-length bloomers in mauve and white striped cotton, topped by a sleeveless bodice in plain mauve.

Several beach dresses had harom skirts or skirts slit to the thighs in the Chinese style, and sleeveless camisoles bedecked with bows.

The designer said his chief aim in designing sportswear was to give comfort and ease of movement.

Dresses and play suits were loose fitting with dropped waistlines although the high-waisted empire line was seen also.

Theory.

On the theory that tuck-in shirts usually pull out of shorts, or cause bulge around the hips, the designer thought up a number of one-piece play suits that looked like separates—for instance a sleeveless black and white checked top was joined to brief black shorts.

All shorts had two zips, one on each side, for better fit and easier changing on the beach. There were several blouses—with matching shorts and loose shirts—a reminder that Ruth originated the bikini after the Second World War although she called it "The Atom," the smallest swim suit in the world.

Colours featured in the collection included brown, mauve and purple and dark grey. Prints were mostly abstract.

Hot tips

THE newest Hair Fashion Council style starts with the bias-cut of the hair. The locks are swirled to frame the face in smooth contour. The featured edges of brushed bangs are brushed smooth or colored to have strands for placement, or greatest becomingness. The swirls are shorter and freer, making the ansatz adaptable for day or evening wear.

NOWADAYS, when a new synthetic fabric arrives in town, they beat the drums for it.

The glossiest model girls around London are lined up for super-tremendous advertising campaigns which assure every woman just how much her life is going to be revolutionized by this wonderful new can't-shrink-stain-crease fabric which washes-dries-dries needs no ironing and is absolutely repellent to moths/flames.

It was otherwise in the distant pre-war days when rayon, pioneer among the man-made fibres, first crept modestly on to the scene.

The name

THE godparents who presided gloomily over its christening named it with an unpronounceable name: artificial silk.

If you couldn't afford the real thing, this, they supposed, wasn't TOO bad, an approach that did nothing to reconcile women to rayon stockings during the war.

This dingy aura continued to cling to rayon for many years after the war; it wasn't so much a bad word as an unmentionable word, printed in microscopic type on the swingmade of rayon—pyjamas and dressing-gowns, skirts and blouses, men's trousers and girls' dresses, beachwear and bikini gowns.

Rayon turned up looking like sateen and linen, like shantung and thick silk, broadcloth and in the form of many of those textured plain fabrics that make such excellent summer office-wear for working girls. Among firms producing rayon fibres are Liberty's, who make a glorious light uncreased one called Flesta, which takes beautiful coloured prints, fools many an expert eye into the assumption it's silk—and costs 10s. 1d. a yard.

Merchants are bringing out at the beginning of next year a fabric called Cyanan, which looks like pure silk shantung, is dyed to the same deep textured plain colours—the subtle browns, the sharp plinks, the off-beat blues and greens.

And Savers, who sell to international couture houses, use rayon for 70 per cent of their fabrics.

For the towering merit of rayon in this age of democratic fashion is the staggering cheapness.

The feel

AS Frank Usher comments: "If you want lots of pretty clothes, they need to be inexpensive and rayon makes them just that."

"A little slip of a dress in pure silk paper taffeta would cost about 25 guineas, the pure silk usually having to be imported and taxation to be paid, but rayon looks very nearly as good, feels as good, does the same job of good workmanship, mounts just as nicely and produces as true a colour."

Since 75 per cent of their collection is produced from rayon in one form or another, they should know what they are talking about.

The Rain-Puddle Lake —Merlin's Magic Makes Shadow's Wish Come True

By MAX TRELL

"MR. MERLIN is a wonderful Magician," Knarf, the Shadow Boy with the Turned-About Name, was saying to his sister Hanid. "A few days ago when we wanted to go swimming, he took a mirror off the wall in his room and put it down in the middle of his backyard. Then he said some magic words—and the mirror turned into a swimming pool!"

Shook his head

But again Mr. Merlin was shaking his head.

"Sorry," he was saying. "I lent that geography book to a friend of mine and he hasn't returned it yet."

Knarf and Hanid looked very gloomy. They were just about to turn away when Mr. Merlin said in his bright, cheerful, half-joking way:

"You're not going away, are you?"

Knarf and Hanid smiled as her brother told this story. Then she finally said:

"But a couple of days later he did an even more wonderful thing. We wanted to go for a longer swim so, instead of turning the mirror into a swimming pool, he went to his bookshelf and got a geography book and took out the Pacific Ocean and put that in the middle of his backyard and there we were, swimming in a real ocean right in Mr. Merlin's backyard!"

Knarf now said that he wished he could swim in the Pacific Ocean—or any other ocean—that very minute.

Knarf and Hanid said this when Knarf, who was carrying a swim bag, suddenly exclaimed in an excited voice that Mr. Merlin was coming down the street.

Sure enough, a minute or two later, the door opened and in walked Mr. Merlin. He was carrying something large and flat, all tied up in wrapping paper, under his arm.

Found it on street

"I found it lying in the middle of the street early this morning when I went out. So I wrapped it up because I was quite sure that when I got home we would meet two very dear friends of mine and they would be asking what it was."

Nothing else to do

"I guess there isn't anything else to do," said Knarf.

"If I were a Magician," Hanid said, "and I wanted to go for a swim, I'd change a rain puddle neatly in the middle of the backyard and murmur some strange words over it and—zip!—change it into the most beautiful, cool, dark lake with water lily blossoms floating all along the edges and a pair of white swans swimming gracefully in the middle."

Never did Knarf and Hanid enjoy a swim so much—except, of course, for two other times when they swam in a mirror-like swimming pool and in the lovely Pacific Ocean that looked as if it had come straight out of a geography book.

"You are a Magnificent Magician!" Hanid said to Mr. Merlin as she threw her arms around his neck and gave him a kiss!

Changed into lake

And when they reached the backyard, they watched him unwrap the rain puddle (which is something only a Magnificent Magician like Mr. Merlin can do) and place that rain puddle neatly in the middle of the backyard and murmur some strange words over it and—zip!—change it into the most beautiful, cool, dark lake with water lily blossoms floating all along the edges and a pair of white swans swimming gracefully in the middle.

"Never did Knarf and Hanid enjoy a swim so much—except, of course

Innings win for West Indies

Bunbury, Oct. 26. Garfield Sobers and Sonny Ramdhien spun out a West Australian Country XI here today to give the West Indies a convincing win in the two-day match which opened their tour. The West Indies, who yesterday scored 255 in reply to the Country side's modest total of 56, dismissed the home team for 105 to win by an innings and 94 runs with three and a half hours to spare.

Sobers, who turned the ball appreciably, claimed five wickets for 15 runs in 10.3 overs, though often his left-arm deliveries lacked control. Ramdhien, who also got a lot of spin out of the pitch, took three for 30 in 13 overs.—Reuter.

SWEET REVENGE

England Soccer XI score brilliant 4-2 victory over Spain

London, Oct. 26. England beat Spain by four goals to two after leading 2-1 at half-time in their friendly international football match here today.

The English victory gave its 80,000 supporters at the Wembley Empire Stadium hopes that England had at last found an eleven capable of regaining the reputation of a great football playing nation.

It was England's sweet revenge for the three nil whitewash they took at Madrid last May.

THE DAI REES GOLF SCHOOL

How to pitch and run to the pin

THE pitch-and-run can turn three shots into two from anywhere around 50 yards to the green, is a vital one to master.

Depending on the length of the shot and the lie of the short iron can be used.

In my picture above I am taking a 7-iron 30 yards from the tee with the ball on a line from the middle of my feet (1).

The shot is a movement comprising knee, hands, arm and body, it is really similar more than an exaggerated approach putt. Note the relaxed knee position (2).

PLAY SLOWLY

To take the club back two and a half to three feet (3) and follow through the same distance. The nearer the green, the less distance should be taken back, but always the follow through should be the same.

Play the shot slowly, keep your head still and right over the ball (4). The club should be held in a looser grip than for the longer clubs and don't lose control of the shaft (5) or scoop at the ball.

Both hands should play an equal part in sending the ball on its way.

This is so important with these delicate pitch and run shots.

And here is the wrong way

● In the second picture the player doing it the wrong way will hit this shot right over the back of the green with such a backswing.

He is too far from the ball and his hands are not relaxed. He has taken the clubhead too far back and by adopting a stance away from the ball, is quite unable to have his head over it.

This is so important with these delicate pitch and run shots.

Women's teams to continue England versus South Africa cricket battle

Johannesburg, Oct. 26.
The clash between South Africa and England on the cricket fields of Lord's, the Oval, Edgbaston, Trent Bridge and Old Trafford will be continued in November—but this time the women will take over.

An England women's cricket side are coming to South Africa for the first time in November to play 12 matches, including four Tests, in the space of just over two months.

The visit will be South Africa's women's first taste of international cricket, and enthusiasm is at a high peak in anticipation of some exciting games.

The women Springboks are the youngest of the countries playing Test cricket, having only become organised in 1951, although women were already playing cricket in the 1930's in the Transvaal, Western Province and Natal.

It was a man who took the initiative in forming the South African Women's Cricket Association—Mr Eric Rowan, the former Springbok opening batsman and vice-captain.

25 clubs

A keen band of women in Johannesburg in 1951 asked him to help, and Mr Rowan, energetic and lively as ever, convened the inaugural meeting at which the South African and Rhodesian Women's Cricket Association was born. He became the acting chairman.

Since then, the association, now administered entirely by women, has flourished in most of the main centres of the Union and in Rhodesia, and the standard of play has improved considerably. Now, the South African women are ready to test their strength against that of the women of England, acknowledged world champions among the women cricketers of the world.

Although the South African women are confident of success, they face a formidable task. In England, the selectors can choose their team from some 3,000 players, drawn from 180 clubs and 80 schools, while the women's cricket population is only 300, of whom 100 are from Southern Transvaal and the remaining 200 from the other provinces and Rhodesia. There are, in fact, only 25 clubs, while few of the girls' schools play cricket.

In addition, England have had the invaluable experience of playing against Australia, New Zealand and Holland. The captain, for instance, Helen Sharpe, has completed three tours in Australia, New Zealand and Holland respectively, while most of the other members of the team have also played in international games.

Mainstay

Miss Valentine Brown, one of the "veterans" of the side, a class act and a brilliant close-in fielder, has been the mainstay of the Western Province team for several years. She has also represented Western Province in tennis for many years.

Miss Hollie of Southern Transvaal and Jennifer Gove of Natal, are both batsmen. Miss Gove's twin sister Roswynn, a bowler, is also included in the pool of 25 from whom players will be drawn for the Tests.

12 Chess Olympiad finalists decided

The 12 finalists in the Leipzig Chess Olympics were decided after the ninth preliminary round today.

Besides the defending team of the Soviet Union, they include Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, East Germany, West Germany, Argentina, Holland, England, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, the United States and Romania. Play in this year's group will start on Friday.

Romania and the Netherlands were the last to move up to the team, a medium-paced bowler and a brilliant fielder. The fastest bowlers are Andrew Jackson of Eastern Province and Lorna Ward of Natal who are expected to open the attack against England. Miss Jackson, who has just left school, is short and well-built and was first selected for Eastern Province when the age of 12, the youngest player ever to play in an inter-provincial tournament. Miss Ward is of medium height and slim, yet hauls down the ball at surprising speed.

ISRAEL SOCCER TEAM IN HK

But will not play any matches here during 2-day stay

The Israel National football team arrived here for a two-day stopover today by Swissair from Tokyo after taking part in the Asian Football Tournament in Seoul, Korea.

The party, consisting of 22 members including 19 players, will be unable to play any matches in Hong Kong but this afternoon the Israeli players went down to the Army ground at Boundary-street for a brief work-out.

Asian runners-up

Their manager, Mr Avigdor Hershkovitch said they would be training for their coming World Cup match against Cyprus on November 13, in Nicosia.

The Israelis finished second in the Asian Cup tournament

Speaking of football in Asia, Mr Hershkovitch said, "The Asians play a different type of soccer from us. They are fast and tough. The Korean side that defeated us were good, but I would like to see them play against another team first so we could see them in action. As it was, I had to take five of my players to the hospital after our opening game against the Koreans."

World Cup

"Our game against Formosa was excellent. The Chinese are good players and they played a similar game to us. I am really sorry that we were not able to play here," he added.

"I think the Chinese are a good team, and slightly better than the Koreans."

In the World Cup, Mr Hershkovitch said he felt pretty confident about the early rounds. "We should get through our rounds against Cyprus, Ethiopia and Rumania. If we manage to defeat Rumania, which will be a hard game, then we face the big obstacle, Italy. I hesitate to forecast a result."

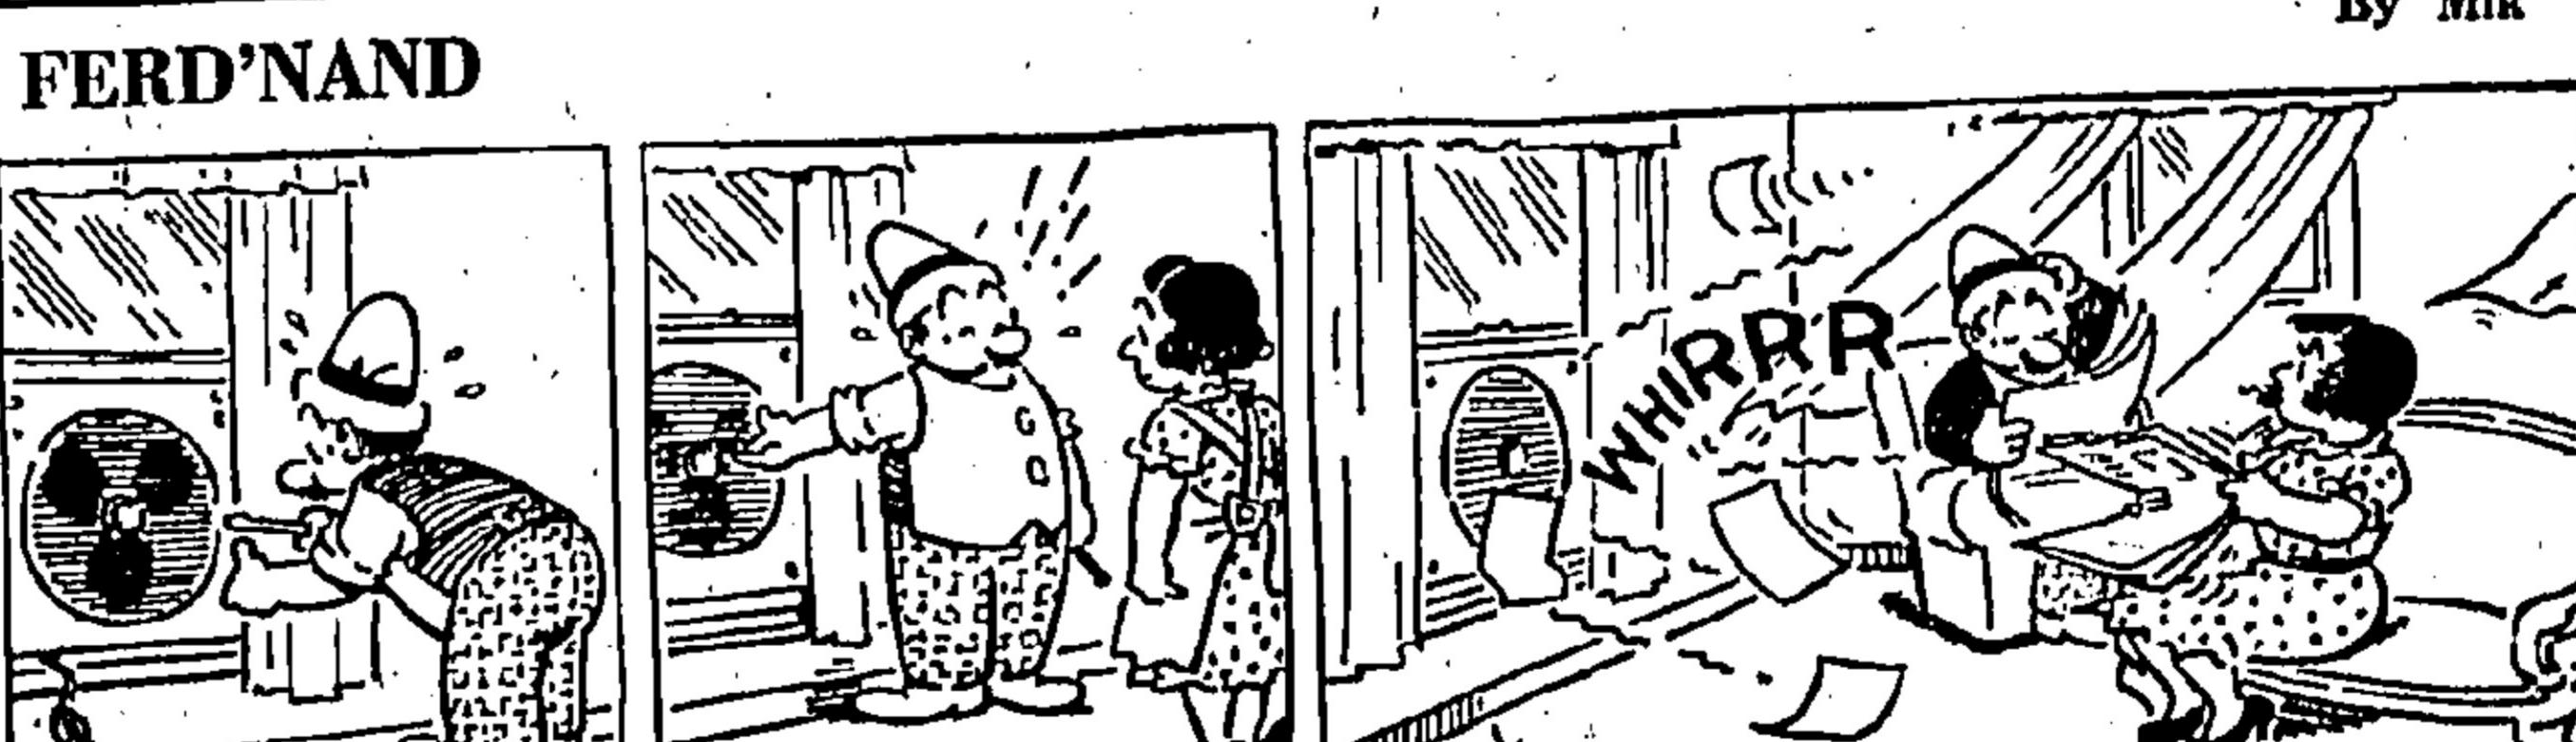

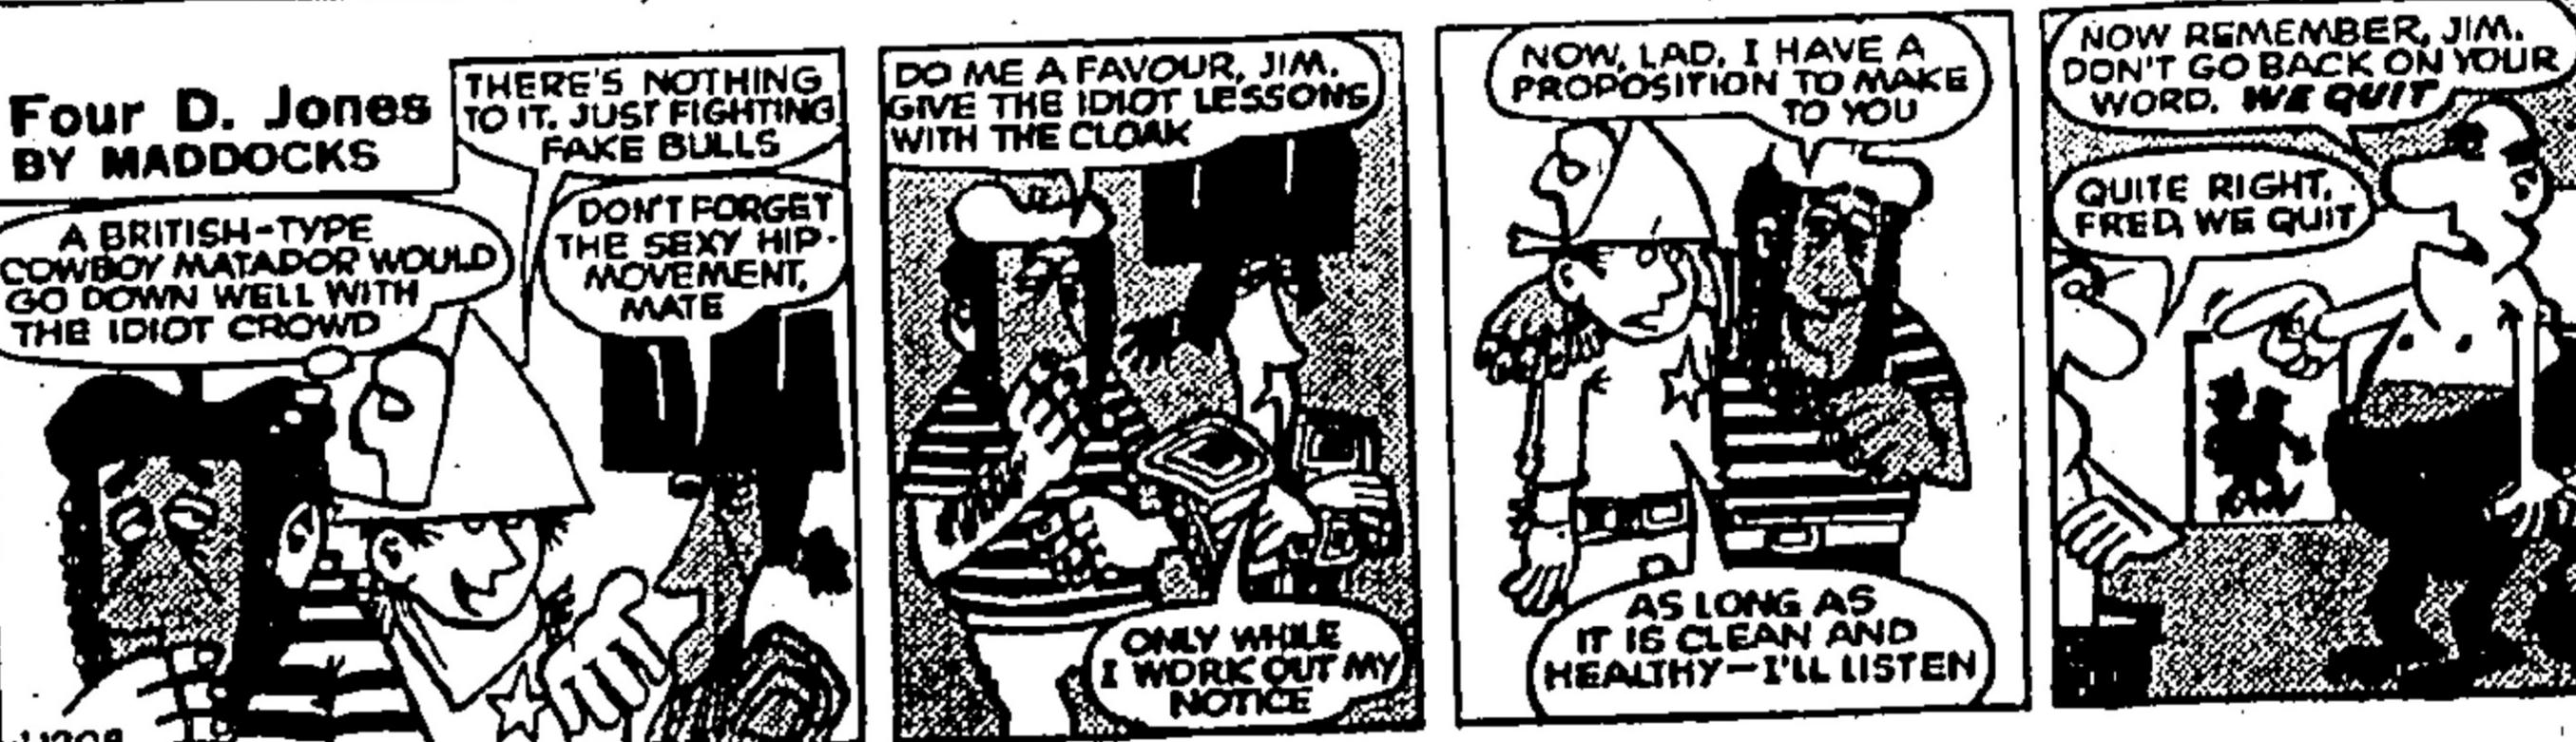

The team will fly to Bangkok, where they will stay for two days. They plan to be back in Israel well in time for their opening World Cup game, and will play no further matches en route home.
